BBS WINS ICSA PENSION BUSINESS

The Institute of Chartered Secretaries and Administrators (ICSA) has appointed one of the UK's leading independent specialist pension firms to oversee its occupational pension scheme.

BBS, whose client pension assets exceed £1 billion, will provide a full range of actuarial, consultancy and administration services to ICSA. The London-based organisation is the qualifying body for company secretaries and has 36,000 members and students in more than 70 countries.

"We are delighted to be working with such a prestigious body as ICSA and look forward to working with it as it continues to develop," said James Stanfield, director at BBS.
